Letter To Parents

Dear Parents:

Last spring you registered your child/children to enter the kindergarden program of the Appomattox County schools for the 1973-74 session. Approximately 100 children were registered to attend kindergarten classes, either at the Pamplin Elementary School or at Oakville. As you know, the Oakville Center will serve those children who would attend the Appomattox Primary School provided space was available.

The School Board wants to assure you that all possible steps will be taken to make the kindergarten experience safe, enjoyable, and beneficial to your child/children. Specially, we hope that the following information will provide answers to some of your questions:

1. The Oakville School has been painted inside and outside, the heating and water systems will be checked and improved to meet specifications, and the rooms will be furnished with recommended kindergarten furniture and instructional materials.

2. Teachers who are certified by the State Department of Education to teach kindergarten have been employed to conduct the program at Oakville and Pamplin.

3. The Oakville program will be administered by the Principal of the Appomattox Primary School, with the assistance of members of the Central Supervisory staff. The Principal of the Pamplin Elementary School will administer the program for that school and receive assistance from the Central Supervisory staff.

4. Kindergarten students will ride school buses and be picked up at the same time a school bus makes a regular trip (this applies to both morning and afternoon schedules).

5. Kindergarten children who ride buses that come by the Oakville School on the way to Appomattox will unload at Oakville. Teachers will be on duty to meet those students when they arrive.

6. All other kindergarten students, except those who will attend the Pamplin School, will ride the regular buses to the Appomattox Primary School. These students will unload at the Appomattox Primary, under the supervision of teachers and aides, and be transported to the Oakville Center by regular school bus.

7. The same guidelines for lunch and textbook rental materials will apply to kindergarten children as to all other students. That is, kindergarten children will pay a textbook rental fee of $6.50 and will pay the regular rate for lunch or receive free or reduced price lunches. Payment for lunch may be made weekly or daily.

8. Parents are encouraged to form car pools to transport kindergarten children to and from school. Where private transportation is provided, the kindergarten children should not arrive at the kindergarten center before 8:30 a.m. and not later than 9:00 a.m. These children may be picked up from the center promptly at 2 p.m.

The kindergarten program is designed to give pre-school children varied e x p er iences which will better prepare them to enter the regular school system at the age of six years. The child's intellectual growth will be encouraged and his emotional growth will be promoted. Emphasis will be placed on his social growth and attention will be given to physical growth through mastery of physical skills and accomplishment of c er t a in tasks.

All plans for the kindergarten program have been made on the basis of the registrations last spring. We anticipate that all students who have registered will attend the kindergarten classes. If changes in plans have occurred we request that you inform the school principal immediately. There may be other children of kindergarten age who did not pre-register whose parents now desire to have attend kindergarten. The class enrollments are near capacity. Therefore, if we know of a child who was previously registered who will not attend the program we will be in a position to provide an opportunity for other children to register.

The School Board has employed a very competent staff of teachers and administrators for the 1973-74 session. Twenty teachers will be new to the system. All teaching personnel are certificated by the State Department of Education.

The school administrators for 1973-74 are as follows:

Appo. County High School
Cecil B., Tillery, Jr., Principal
Mr. John McLean, Asst.
Appo. County High School
Mr. Cecil B. Tillery, Jr., Prin.
Mr. John McLean, Assist. Prin.
Appo. Intermediate School
Mr. Daniel W. Davis, Act. Principal
Mr. Robert J. Williamson, Assistant Principal
Pamplin Elementary School
Mrs. Barbara Waddell, Prin.
Appomattox Primary School and Oakville Kindergarten
Mrs. Patricia Torrence,Prin.

All personnel who worked with the school system this summer concerned themselves with preparation for the 1973-74 session. Some improvements have been made to the physical structures. Members of the Central Office Staff and principals have devoted considerable time to the development of plans and programs to assure the achievement of the Standards of Quality objectives. With dedicated efforts of all school employees and the cooperation and support of the citizens of Appomattox County, we anticipate that the 1973-74 school session will be a year of effective educational oppor tunities for the 2,500 Appomattox students.

Please remember that the School Board and school personnel cannot achieve the goal of quality education for all pupils without your help and support. This is needed in the operation of the daily school program. it is your responsibility to become familiar with the school program and to assist your son or daughter in taking full advantage of the opportunities available. Do not hesitate to call your school principal when there are questions or concerns.

Transportation of pupils is an important part of the school program. The School Board recently adopted a "School Bus Transportation Policy Manual." This manual was written to provide specific rules and regulations for bus drivers and pupils to follow to ensure safe, efficient, and economical pupil transportation. Pupil transportation involves "transporting o u r most precious cargo."

The schools will receive parents on Thurs., Aug. 30, and Fri., Aug. 31, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., who desire to pay student fees and learn about instructional plans for 1973-74 session. You are encouraged to take advantage of this opportunity.

The opportunity to serve the youth of our county is a challenge and a rewarding experience. What we do for our youth today will determine, to a large extent, the kind of future they will have. Let us do all that is within our power to prepare our youth to live productive lives now and in the future.

Sincerely,
Lloyd G. Walton
Division Superintendent

The Pastor Speaks

WE CANNOT LOVE IN OUR OWN STRENGTH

Many times we refuse to love certain people. We love only those who are easy to love. We cannot love the ones who are unattractive, or particular, or grouchy, or disagreeable, or who do not love us. The reason is that in our natural ability we have neither the power nor the motivation to love them.

We cannot love in our strength. Just as "those who are in the flesh (the carnal man) cannot please God" (Romans 8:8), we cannot demonstrate God's unconditional love for others by our own efforts. You may try over and over, but you will always fail. In your own strength it is not possible to love with God's kind of love. This is the reason why God has provided a change of our nature through Christ and gives to us a new nature like unto himself. He provides us with a new kind of love altogether.

We can love with God's love. God's love was expressed in the life of Jesus Christ. Will Jesus in our lives and with Him upon the throne of our life. He actually loves through us. God is Spirit and the "fruit of the Spirit is love . . . . (Galatians 5:22). When we are controlled by the Holy Spirit, we can love with God's love.

The Sunday School Lesson

Herbert C. Bradshaw
P. O. Box 1833
Durham, N. C. 27707

Comment on the International Sunday School lesson for Sunday, August 26, 1973.

Topic: Redemptive Love in Action.

Scripture: Matthew 12:43-45 Mark 2: 13-17; Luke 15: 11-32; 1 Corinthians 9: 19-23; Galatians 5: 25-6:5

Bear one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ. Galatians 6:2.

The concept that law is an authority which compels overlooks its basic character, that it is designed for the individual's protection and guidance. Jesus brought law and love together when He made love for God with the powers of one's whole being and love for his neighbor as himself the basic law of life.

Love crowns and gives meaning to law, even as it encourages obedience to law. For if it is remembered that laws are instituted for man's protection and guidance, regard for self and love for one's fellow man provide ample motive for obeying the law. In this respect Jesus' second commandment, "You shall love your neighbor as yourself," takes on exceptional significance. If a person would protect himself by obeying laws, he will be protecting his fellows also by obeying these laws. In a homely but apt illustration, the motor vehicle driver who obeys the traffic laws not only contributes to his own protection but also to the protection of all others using that road.

But obedience to the commandment, "You shall love your neighbor as yourself," is not merely defensive. It is also aggressive. Love motivates a person to go out on his initiative and seek ways to help others. This expression of love is encompassed in the injunction, "bear one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ." Here Paul was concerned with the specific problem of dealing with fellow believers whose conduct had fallen below the standard which the teachings of Christ set for His disciples. The objective is restoration to fellowship, and the approach to restoration is through love.

This is a contemporary problem in our churches, and the guidance is pertinent. Some deviation from the standard of conduct commonly accepted for Christians all too often becomes the beginning of an estrangement from the fellowship of believers in consequence of pressures from two sources, the individual's own honest sense of unfitness and the obvious attitude of censure and disapproval from those who continue in good standing in the fellowship. The offending individual is neglected, and the gulf separating him from those with whom he had once shared fellowship is widened. Paul's instruction, "Bear one another's burdens," would correct this mistaken practice.

To "bear one another's burdens" in fulfilling Christ's commandment "You shall love your neighbor as yourself" has a much wider application than the helpful effort to restore a person to what the Psalmist called "the joy of thy salvation," though the importance of such a demonstration of love is not to be minimized. People today, despite the affluence of our society and probably to some extent because of it, carry many and heavy burdens. It is to this situation also that Paul is speaking when he says, "Bear one another's burdens."

Stand on a street where many people pass or in some place where many people gather. Notice the number whose faces reflect sorrow or anxiety or care, whose "weary steps and slow" indicate a weight of burden on the mind and spirit, whose frames seem bent "beneath life's crushing load." Jesus found multitudes in this condition in Palestine, even as there are multitudes today, and He set the example for His disciples in every age by His help.

In an even more significant and important sense Christ took upon Himself the burdens of others, for in His Incarnation and crucifixion He took upon Himself the incalculable burden of sin of all people. His motivation in taking upon Himself the burden of people's sin was loved-so great that He was willing to become man but to give His human life that people might be redeemed from sin's terrible penalty of eternal alienation from God. By teaching by example, Christ leads His disciples in bearing one another's burdens."
